THE ETRUSCANS IN MARSILIANA (TUSCANY, ITALY)

INTERNATIONAL INTRODUCTORY FIELDSCHOOL IN ARCHAEOLOGY

30 MAY - 27 JUNE 2010

The Association Etruria Nova, under the technical direction of the University of Siena and in collaboration with the Superintendent of Cultural Heritage in Tuscany and the Township of Manciano, offers an International Introductory Fieldschool in Archaeology. This initiative is sponsored by the Province of Grosseto and is supported by the Marsiliana Estate of Prince Corsini. Comprising modules of one or two weeks the school offers participants experience of methods of archaeological research, taught by professional archaeologists, with lectures, seminars, survey and excavation sessions on the sites of the area and visits to the principal Etruscan archaeological sites of the Grosseto and Viterbo areas. The course is open to anyone, with an interest in archaeology or the interpretation and conservation of cultural heritage, in accordance with the statutes of the Association Etruria Nova.
